George Clary (25% share holder)

Mr. Clary is a retired Aerospace Engineer who has been an active pilot since 1969. He currently owns five airplanes which are all based at the Carson City airport (two Cessna Skymasters, two Cessna 150s, and a Cessna Cardinal RG).

Mr. Clary earned his pilot's license and Flight Instructor ratings while attending Harvey Mudd College in Southern California. After college, he enjoyed a successful career in aerospace, working mostly on advanced guidance and navigation concepts. He spent five years at NASA working on advanced navigation radar concepts and was involved in early work on differential GPS approaches. After NASA, he came to Reno and worked with Sierra Nevada Corporation. That work included development and fielding of automatic landing systems for many military Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV) systems.

In 1988 Mr. Clary moved his initial airplane to KCXP and remains an active pilot and mechanic on the airport. He's a member of the Carson City Sheriff's Aero Squadron, currently serving as Commander of the Squadron. He's also a volunteer pilot for the Cactus Air Force's 'O2' Skymaster. Mr. Clary has over 5,000 hours as a pilot and is single and multi-engine (SMEL) rated, Flight Instructor (SMEL and instrument), and is also a licensed FAA Airframe and Powerplant mechanic. He has been a tenant in the Cubix hangar for close to five years.

Bill Hartman (25% share holder)
